

Sonja Perren
University of Zürich, Switzerland

Current methodological issues in bullying research

Sonja Perren is an assistant Professor for Youth Development at the University of Zürich, Switzerland. Her research Interests are: life span development, social competence and mental health, mobbing and cybermobbing, adaptational processes across life-course transitions, social relationships and well-being, as well as prevention and health promotion. Furthermore, she teaches several courses like:

- School based interventions,
- Social cognition and social skills in peer relationships,
- Online communication from a developmental perspective and
- Social relationships and adaptive development in children and adolescents.

In addition she supervises dissertations and master theses.

